

COMMONING EUROPE

Commoning Europe is a KA2 project for the exchange of good practices financed by Erasmus plus Programme on the topic of the Commons. It intends to open discussion among actors from different countries as a very simple exercise of inclusion and innovation in order to expand the way we can define the theme. The project also promotes the development of a network of parties interested in supporting experiences of commoning, and stimulates shared learning with an open attitude towards practices, involving both administrators and bottom-up participation.

WHAT ARE COMMONS?

The commons are, historically and primarily, products. These goods are managed not by the government and not by the market but by a third pillar, a process of commoning in the hands of the users of the good, the commoners. Common, commoners and the rules and agreements that the commoners devise for the use of the good are together a triptych that gives substance to the commoning process.

WHAT IS OUR CHALLENGE?

The project intends:

- to investigate the different approaches to commons at European level, in terms of relations between the different social actors and aimed at overcoming organizational, bureaucratic, social difficulties, etc.
- to strengthen the skills of public officials and citizens to better manage commons and build virtuous synergies together.
- to develop a training cycle among the European partners by exploiting the complementarity of their approaches and stimulate the capacity for innovation for promoting the commons.
